

Cookie Policy

This policy explains how cookies are used on this website www.foenixpartners.com. By using our website with your browser setting adjusted to accept cookies, you are consenting to our use of cookies and other tools to provide the products and services available on those sites. If you do not wish to accept cookies from this site, please disable cookies on your browser settings.

Information on cookie

Cookies are small pieces of data sent from a website and stored on the user's computer or mobile device by the web browser. A cookie will usually expire after a certain period of time.

The data stored allows the website, or third-parties to recognise you and tailor content based on your previous activity on the site.

Type of Cookie we use on our website

Our website uses session cookies, which are temporary cookies and only exist for the period you access the website. Session cookies do not contain personal information and cannot be used to identify you. Please note that third parties (such as providers of external services like web traffic analysis services) may also use cookies, to which we do not oversee due to the lack of control we have.

Why do we use cookies?

- We use cookies to provide analytics and to store your preferences to provide you with a better service. In addition to our own cookies, we may also use various third-parties' cookies to report usage statistics of the website.
- To track how visitors reach our site and the path they take through it to help us improve our service to you.
- To monitor and manage our Website traffic.
- To understand how our marketing campaigns and promotions are working to improve our site design, offers and promotions.

What types of cookies do we use?

We use the following types of cookies:

Type of cookie	Name of cookies	Description of its purpose
Session		A session cookie for a website only exists whilst the user is reading or navigating the website. When the user closes their web browser these cookies are usually removed.
Persistent		A persistent cookie for a website exists on a user's computer until a future date. For example, the cookie expiry date could be set at 1-year and each time a website is accessed over this period the website could access the cookie.
HTTP only		An HTTP only cookie can only be used via HTTP or HTTPS, and therefore cannot be accessed by JavaScript. This reduces threat of session cookie theft via cross site scripting (XSS).
Secure		A secure cookie can only be used via HTTPS. This ensures the cookie data is encrypted, reducing the exposure to cookie theft via eavesdropping.
Third Party		First-party cookies are cookies set with the same domain (or its subdomain) as your browser's address bar. Third-party cookies are cookies set with domains different from the one shown on the address bar. The web pages on the first domain may feature content from a third-party domain, e.g. an advert run by www.advertexample.com . Privacy setting options in most modern browsers allow you to block third-party tracking cookies.

What to do if you don't want cookies in place?

If you wish not to have cookies in place, you can modify your browser settings which allows you to refuse the setting of all or some cookies. Alternatively, you may wish to visit www.aboutcookies.org which contains comprehensive information on how to disable cookies on a wide variety of browsers. However, if you use your browser settings to block all cookies, please note that if you do disable the use of cookies on this website some functionality such as navigation may not work as intended.
